THE SOUL OF A CHILD

The soul of a child is the loveliest flower.

That grows in the garden of God.

It's a climb in from weakness to knowledge and power.

To the sky from the day and the cloud.

To beauty and sweetness it grows under care.

Neglected, the rugged and wild.

It's a plant that is tender, but won-derously rare.

The sweetest soul of a child!

Be tender, O gardener, and give it its share.

Of sun, of moon, of warmth, and of light.

And let it not lack for thy painstaking care.

A glad day will come when its bloom shall unfold.

It will seem that an angel has smiled.

Reflecting a beauty and sweetness

unfading.

In the sensitive soul of a child.

ADABELLE HOME A PLACE OF BEAUTY

Foys Add Greatly To Comfort And Beauty Through Careful Planning.

The claim is frequently set up that opportunity to make the country home a place of beauty does not exist because of various factors such as soil conditions, drainage and many other points.

The efforts of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Foy to make their home in the Adabelle community something more than a place to live are now visible. The long process of making the running water walk off their yard is complete. Natural plants and grass came into use for this purpose. Pine seedlings planted in a manner to add color and beauty to the hill side in a Bermuda grass sod takes care of the landscaping problem and to control erosion.

Back of the pines and Bermuda grass the home stands on a hill that makes it possible for most of the farm to be observed from the porch. The fences around are not fancy, but neat and well constructed. The landscaping in the yard about the house is well planned, so that tall growing plants are not in the way of vision from windows or doors, no cold, damp air pockets are formed by it, lets in plenty of sunlight and does not obstruct good ventilation. The house is well back from the road and has the appearance of spaciousness that belongs to the farm.

Evidently the plans for landscaping this home were well prepared and given careful study. The flowers used seem to be just the right color, the shrubbery and foliage blend with all the characteristics of each other so that a pleasing combination is now found.

give this school a lawn second to none in the county.

Eula has a fence about the school yard that is the envy of all the farmers in the community. Plantings about the house can now be protected and given a chance to grow.

The shrubbery around the building at Stilton has been mulched and is in good growing condition. The flower bed in front of the home economics and agriculture building adds color to the plantings around on the campus, such as dogwood and other native shrubs.

Brooklet has a well planned and cared for growth of shrubbery around the buildings. The desired effects of landscaping are already available from these plantings.

Individual flower beds and rose gardens added to the attraction of the campus at Okeechobee. This campus has a good sod of carpet grass to help add color to the flowers and shrubs.

Midgerton shrubbery, most of which was planted two or three years ago, looked as if it was well cared for and kept pruned to maintain the effects desired.

Banks of red roses and masses of color in the various flower gardens caught the eyes of the judges when they approached the campus.

West Side school seemed to have followed a well drawn plan in landscaping the campus. The shrubbery was of the right type and in the proper place to give the desired breaks in the lines of the building. Register is making an effort to control erosion on the campus that will eventually add grass and color to the landscaping about the buildings.

Some of the schools have been closed too long for the condition of the campus to show up to the best advantage. Warnock community had evidenced interest in the condition of its school in the early spring to hold community workings to get their landscaping program under way, and from the looks of the campus now these people plan to keep the campus in condition. Indications are this community does not plan for all the work spent on the campus to go to waste merely because school is not in session.

In addition to the school beautification contest which has culminated in the award to Warnock School, the Statesboro Rotary Club is sponsoring a kindred contest to rural homes throughout the entire county, which will be similarly decided by a committee which will later be named.

It has already been announced that all home-owners who desire to have their homes considered should make known that fact to Everett Williams, secretary of the Statesboro Rotary Club, or to Byron Dyer, county agent. This award will be considered later in the summer, it is announced.

DEDICATION

So many things for which to live, so much to do, and so much to be faithful. There's life-worn things whose eyes reveal.

The missing of something gone. Perhaps a heart or soul to heal. Or one whom friends have left behind.

So many things for which to live—Though surely I am small. Come, take my life, if mine to give—Till come when'er you call.

Brooklet School Closes Most Successful Year

The largest crowd that has ever witnessed a graduation from the Brooklet High School was present Monday night when forty-six seniors received their high school diplomas. This is the largest class that has ever been graduated from the school here. Prominent on the evening's program was an address by Sam Shiller, social science instructor of South Georgia Teachers College. Mr. Shiller in an emphatic manner reviewed some of the outstanding facts that the Brooklet school has done in promoting the seven cardinal principles of education, viz: (1) Health, (2) earning a living, (3) citizenship, (4) conservation, (5) communication and transportation, (6) education, (7) education. On the last topic, "education," Mr. Shiller commended the Brooklet school community on its effort and success in keeping the schools open after the state had issued an order six weeks ago that there would be no funds with which to pay teachers. He intelligently reviewed the school situation for another year, and to inform the legislators of the Brooklet district's attitude in regard to calling an extra session of the legislature to provide for the school the coming year.

The class speaker was Robert Lester, who spoke in a creditable manner on the subject, "Act Well Your Part."

Brooklet's new school superintendent, J. A. Pafford, who has been principal and coach for the past several years, delivered the grammar grade certificates to thirty-nine seventh grade girls and boys. At the close of this part of the program, Ouida Wyatt, previously appointed by the senior class, gave a few words of appreciation of the retiring superintendent, J. H. Griffith. Mr. Griffith has been a highly efficient superintendent for the past four years, but declined to accept the superintendent's place for another year in order to give his entire time to his vocational agriculture work.

The last part of the program was the delivery of the diplomas to forty-six seniors by J. H. Wyatt, chairman of the local board of trustees.

Brooklet School Closes Most Successful Year

The largest crowd that has ever witnessed a graduation from the Brooklet High School was present Monday night when forty-six seniors received their high school diplomas. This is the largest class that has ever been graduated from the school here. Prominent on the evening's program was an address by Sam Shiller, social science instructor of South Georgia Teachers College. Mr. Shiller in an emphatic manner reviewed some of the outstanding facts that the Brooklet school has done in promoting the seven cardinal principles of education, viz: (1) Health, (2) earning a living, (3) citizenship, (4) conservation, (5) communication and transportation, (6) education, (7) education. On the last topic, "education," Mr. Shiller commended the Brooklet school community on its effort and success in keeping the schools open after the state had issued an order six weeks ago that there would be no funds with which to pay teachers. He intelligently reviewed the school situation for another year, and to inform the legislators of the Brooklet district's attitude in regard to calling an extra session of the legislature to provide for the school the coming year.

The class speaker was Robert Lester, who spoke in a creditable manner on the subject, "Act Well Your Part."

Brooklet's new school superintendent, J. A. Pafford, who has been principal and coach for the past several years, delivered the grammar grade certificates to thirty-nine seventh grade girls and boys. At the close of this part of the program, Ouida Wyatt, previously appointed by the senior class, gave a few words of appreciation of the retiring superintendent, J. H. Griffith. Mr. Griffith has been a highly efficient superintendent for the past four years, but declined to accept the superintendent's place for another year in order to give his entire time to his vocational agriculture work.

The last part of the program was the delivery of the diplomas to forty-six seniors by J. H. Wyatt, chairman of the local board of trustees.

This closes one of the most successful years in the history of the Brooklet school. In spite of the depressed financial conditions, the citizens, with a sympathetic co-operation of the faculty, have made it possible to continue the schools long enough for the pupils to graduate and to make their grades.

.. Nobody's Business ..

(By GEE McGEE, Anderson, S. C.)

UNCLE BERT HAS GONE AT LAST. Well, friends, Uncle Bert has left our bed and board and gone nobody knows where, as he never said. He came to our house about six weeks ago to spend "Sunday night and Sunday" with us, I being his nephew.

Uncle Bert received his old-age pension checks almost on time. The one that was due the second Thursday in March did not arrive till the following Monday. Between the lapse of these 4 days, Uncle Bert wrote Pres. Roosevelt, Secretary Tamm, and Treasurer Morgenthau to know what was holding his money up.

Somewhat or other Uncle Bert has got it into his head that everybody that is not receiving the old-age pension is fighting the old-age pension set up. He doesn't want to live to go back and live with Cousin Lizzie and Cousin Suley, he never liked them. He has enough mouths to feed, so he said they said.

Uncle Bert's last monthly check was for $10.03. He owed 50 cents for tobacco, 45 cents for drinks, 1.00 for a pipe, $1.20 for beer for his indignation, and $2.00 for whiskey for a pain in his chest, which has been bothering him off and on ever since he worked at a sawmill in 1896 and sprang his spinal column. He found no trouble in getting credit and he explained about his old-age pension and showed his number; he paid everybody up before he left town.

Uncle Bert cannot understand why he is not receiving $30 per month like the New Deal promised. He says the trouble is with our local politicians. He thinks that if the old-age pension were dumped overhead and the old folks left to squabble for themselves. He had a great deal to say about a certain legislator wanting to do away with this thing in our state. He wrote him some hot letters. He seemed sorry to leave our house, but he felt that it was his duty to see some other relatives and he took our advice. Good-bye, Uncle Bert. You will be missed.

THE TAX QUESTION Our town council is using the axe on expenses. The citizens have rose up in their fury about high taxes and it looks like they will strike ere long. They are sick and tired of paying nearly everything they have in taxes and getting no relief from same, hence the action of the city fathers anathor.

the poleman's wedges have been cut from $55 per month to 25$ per month, but he now gets off ever Sunday to go to preaching and is also off ever other night at midnight. In the past his credidit has been good at our 3 grocery stores, but this change mought hurt his ability to pay.

the mayor's salary will not be cut for this term. He tell the members of the town council's nose to the grindstone with the supreme court ruling of last year, Jones versus the county, and he proved that they could not cut him while in office as he was elected for a specific term and he would continue to draw down 25$ per month, plus one-half of all fines he assessed against lawbreakers fetched before his honner.

the city electric lights will be turned off at 9:30 instid of 10:30 p. m. the power company objects to this nighty hour as they have a contract to furnish all the lights flat rock needs. mud holes in the streets will be filled up this mornig. the poleman's ass will be hired help from the outside, the lightning rods on the city hall will be sold if possible. for parking over time in front of the drug store will be c35. by practicing these economies, flat rock will not have to raise the tax levy ananorth.

CRIME IS VERY BRISK Mrs. holsum moore had the misfortune to contact a purse-snatcher last Friday on her way from the kash & carry store. He jumped from behind a oak tree and snatched her purse-bag before she could say jack robbery or holler for help. the poleman got his footprints and will send them to washington to edgar hoover to be identified.

if anybody loses to see or smell any of the things Mrs. moore lost, please risk in care of the post office. he gets all of his male at the p. o. it was a black purse with a red handle, yellow flap, blue bottom, and pink buckle. hold the purse till his finger-prints have been took and return it with contents and keep the cash and no questions will be asked.

the fellow who grabbed her pocket-book from the rear had briches, also shoes and coat, a hat, and was either a white man or a colored man.

he had 2 eyes and 1 mouth and 1 nose and 2 ears and 2 feet and was betwixt 5 ft. and 7 ft. tall, and his hair was either red or black or brown, she couldnt tell which as it all happened so sudden. he was very fast on foot and she never ketchup with him after running him 7 blocks to a filling station.

we have said the hand-riding on the wall about cotton, and she is doomed, a man who will grow a crop of cotton under the present conditions, and with such a big surplus, has not got sense enough to be sent to the legislature, at least—that is what we flat rock farmers have decided.

we have turned right about face, you may cancel our cotton quota and keep all of our future subsidy checks. we have been on the wrong road. we have changed our minds, we now see a bright future, our wives will have decent clothes ar long, no more guano, no more gin-deer sir!

SECOND GOLF SHOT LANDS BACK ON ORIGINAL TEE

Marietta, May 8.—Whenever we begin to think we're good, something always happens to destroy our opinion of ourselves. So was the way with Mrs. Frank Wellins, Marietta. She is quite a golfer, and after trying for so long to make a good drive, finally succeeded in doing so. She hit a beautiful shot, long and straight, right down the fairway. If was such a nice beginning she resolved to make this hole under par. All went well until she made her second shot. Her arm was perfect, her timing excellent. She swung through in a beautiful arc, and missed! So amazed was she that she pulled the club back in the same arc, hit the ball with the back of her club and it landed on the tee from which she had just made her beautiful drive. So, although Mrs. Wellins has not yet achieved her goal, she has the distinction of making the first genuine Corriegan (wrong-way) shot in the history of golf.

dr. hubert green will go into the dog raising business. send him a couple of good bird dogs and a dozen dogs suitable for winners to lead or be led around by, such as the spitz, the dachshund, the fox terrier, or any other breed that ain't fit for nothing else, including pointers and lap dogs. if flat rock can get these new industries started, the furri countries may have the cotton growing rights and privileges. we are thru. the undersigned won't need nothing; he will fish for a living. yores trule, mike lark, rfd, corry spondent.

My FLORENCE-MAYO Oil-Burning TOBACCO CURERS PAID FOR THEMSELVES THE FIRST YEAR

Those are the words of a prominent Carolina Tobacco Grower. His experience is no different from that of thousands of farmers who cure with Florence-Mayo Oil-burning Tobacco Curers.

New... if you are a little weary of sleepless nights of firing furnaces during curing season. If your arms ache from cutting wood, just investigate the Florence-Mayo Oil-burning Tobacco Curer. You'll find the answer to uniform curing... with less trouble than you thought possible.

LOGICAL REASONS FOR ITS SUCCESS

The Florence-Mayo Master Curer, using the famous Florence Wickless Oil Burners can be installed easily in your barn. When you cure with this superior system, you can hang more tobacco with perfect safety, too, because there are no flames to take up valuable room... no hot spots. When smokestacks are used, 25% to 50% of the heat goes outside the barn, but with Florence-Mayo, all the heat is circulated to every corner... and because of this you can kill out a barn from 12 to 24 hours quicker.

Florence-Mayo Oil-Burning Tobacco Curers are low in price—economical to operate—and a convenient payment plan makes them easier to own than ever before.

Send the coupon for full information. Send it today! Don't wait until curing time. Then it may be too late.

My FLORENCE-MAYO Oil-Burning TOBACCO CURERS PAID FOR THEMSELVES THE FIRST YEAR

Those are the words of a prominent Carolina Tobacco Grower. His experience is no different from that of thousands of farmers who cure with Florence-Mayo Oil-burning Tobacco Curers.

New... if you are a little weary of sleepless nights of firing furnaces during curing season. If your arms ache from cutting wood, just investigate the Florence-Mayo Oil-burning Tobacco Curer. You'll find the answer to uniform curing... with less trouble than you thought possible.

LOGICAL REASONS FOR ITS SUCCESS

The Florence-Mayo Master Curer, using the famous Florence Wickless Oil Burners can be installed easily in your barn. When you cure with this superior system, you can hang more tobacco with perfect safety, too, because there are no flames to take up valuable room... no hot spots. When smokestacks are used, 25% to 50% of the heat goes outside the barn, but with Florence-Mayo, all the heat is circulated to every corner... and because of this you can kill out a barn from 12 to 24 hours quicker.

Florence-Mayo Oil-Burning Tobacco Curers are low in price—economical to operate—and a convenient payment plan makes them easier to own than ever before.

Send the coupon for full information. Send it today! Don't wait until curing time. Then it may be too late.

TRIPS OFFERED TO 4-H CLUB MEMBERS

Statesboro To Be Scene of First District Contest Wednesday, May 24th.

Georgia 4-H club members will be given a chance to compete for free trips to the World's Poultry Congress through participation in a state-wide poultry demonstration announced this week.

Details of the new contest were made public by Arthur Gannon, Georgia extension service poultry specialist, and G. V. Cunningham, state 4-H club leader. The poultry congress is scheduled for Cleveland, Ohio, July 28 to August 7.

Two boys and two girls, along with their county farm and home demonstration agents, will be awarded free trips to the poultry congress. Winners will be bona fide 4-H club members who have been enrolled during 1938 and 1939 in a poultry or food project. All contestants must be between 15 and 21 years of age.

Four district contests have been scheduled at various places in the state. The first district contest will be held at Statesboro, May 26, and will feature a poultry project. The highest scoring boys' team and the top girls' team at the four meetings will be selected to attend the congress. District contests are set for Athens, May 25; Statesboro, May 26; Cordele, May 26, and Marietta, May 26.

The boys' demonstration will deal with some production phase of poultry raising, such as breeding, growing, feeding, culling, fitting, and judging, or the production and handling of poultry products on the farm.

For the girls, the demonstration must concern the consumption phase of poultry, such as the preparation of poultry or poultry products, including egg drinks, egg dishes, dried chicken, and other dishes that emphasize the use of poultry.

Two teams of Future Farmers of America boys will also be selected to attend the poultry congress from this state. The F. F. A. teams will be chosen in Athens May 31st.

HENS ONLY 40 DAYS OLD START LAYING

Newman, May 8.—Every day something unbelievable happens. Sometimes near and sometimes far, but eventually we hear about it. L. W. Wilkes, colored, of Newman, tells this story, which he says is something new. He says he has never known one hen to lay so early, "much less two hens!"

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stapleton visited at Newman last week. Dr. Stapleton having gone to assist Dr. Compton in the operation on R. C. Martin's leg. Dr. Stapleton and his wife, Mrs. C. E. Stapleton, have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Futch, Saturday afternoon. They came back here with their daughter, Betty, who had been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Futch. Lasting were shopping in Statesboro Saturday afternoon. They were accompanied by Miss Mary Anderson, of near Register, who had been spending the night with Miss Lastinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Davis and family, having gone up to see the new grandsons, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sharpe, were with them. Miss Sara Martha Davis before her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Prather, of Jacksonville Beach, Fla., visited Mrs. Prather's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Proctor, during the week. They came up to the May Day festival activities at Teachers College in Statesboro, where their only daughter, Miss Prichella Parther, was crowned the May Queen.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Chattean and two lovely little daughters, Mary Helen and Maude Faye, have returned to their home in Kings Retreat, Vt., after stopping by for a few days' visit with Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Lincoln. They had spent the winter in Miami, Fla., and will stop by for a week at the World's Fair in New York. Mr. Chattean is a hotel man.

Mrs. C. J. Martin has returned to her home here after several days' stay in Savannah, to be with her son, R. C., who has been in a very precarious condition in St. Joseph's Hos-

Small Grain Demonstration

Much interest in Georgia and Bulloch county is being given to the live stock industry. Most leaders caution farmers not to increase livestock before their ability to produce feed for them. The county extension agent, Mr. G. V. Cunningham, has been making a survey recently in which they were all very much justified. Quite a number of our farmers are raising small grain. Nine miles west of Statesboro on the farm of John H. Moore, the Register F. F. A. chapter is running a small grain demonstration. To make this experiment more interesting to the people in our community our chapter is offering a prize to the person who estimates nearest to accurate yields. All visitors are urged to make estimates on the yields. Estimate cards can be obtained from William Moore, who has charge of the demonstration.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of expressing our sincere thanks to each and every one who contributed to us in any way in our recent misfortune of losing all our clothing and household goods in our burn-out of April 21st.
